Farmers' Week at Experimental Farm

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 20 to 23, a 4-day course of lectures and practical demonstrations on Live Stock, Field Crops, Poultry, Horticulture and Beekeeping will be given at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe. Experts, prominent in each line of work from the University at Edmonton, the Provincial Department of Agriculture, Canadian Pacific Railway Department of Natural Resources and the Dominion Live Stock Branch will assist the staff of Experimental Station. Evening addresses will be given by prominent speakers. A full programme will appear in this paper next week.

SPECIAL CEREAL CROP FIELD DAY AT THE DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL STATION LACOMBE, ALBERTA

FRIDAY, AUGUST 17th, 1928
Mr. L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist and Mr. Peter Stewart, Secretary, Canadian Seed Growers' Association, both of Ottawa, will be at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, on this date to discuss problems in connection with the production of registered seed grain. The Experimental Station has some 110 different plots of grain grown from seed submitted by Alberta Seed Growers to the Canadian Seed Growers' Association for verification tests. These will be showing to advantage on this date and will provide very interesting comparisons with respect of purity of variety and type. In addition to this, interesting variety testing, plant breeding and Elite Stock Seed Production experiments will be available for observation and discussion. Come and bring any of your friends who are interested in the production of registered seed grain.

MORE RAILWAYS

Railway construction in Canada is to be speeded up, according to report. In the next two years, if applications now before the federal and provincial governments are approved, considerably more new mileage will be put down than that of either transcontinental line in its coast-to-coast road. This would indicate such activity in two years as the whole decade preceding had not shown.

The prospect of new railroading on so extensive a scale is a gratifying sign of increasing development in Canada, and to those parts likely to be included in the construction program it will be particularly good news. Probably the bulk of the new mileage will be in the western north.

One of the significant features of the case is that not so long ago it was being said that railway construction in Canada had been overdone. The mileage built up to that time was declared to be in excess of the country's requirements for many years, and there were those who went so far as to say that never again would Canada see such enormous programs as had been.

CLOSED SEASON WILL CONTINUE ON PARTRIDGE

Continuation for 1928 of the closed season on grouse, prairie chicken and partridge is announced in the 1928 game regulations, just issued by the provincial game guardian.

The open season on Hungarian partridge is also reduced from three to two months. It opens this year on October 1, (two weeks later than last year), and closes November 30 (two weeks earlier than last year). The bag limit is the same—15 per day; 75 per season.

This year the Clearwater and Athabasca rivers has been made a dividing line for the open season on ducks and geese. North of this line, the season opens September 1, and closes December 14; south of the line, the season opens two weeks later, on September 15, and closes December 14.

The bag limit is the same as last year—30 ducks per day; 200 per season; 15 geese per day.

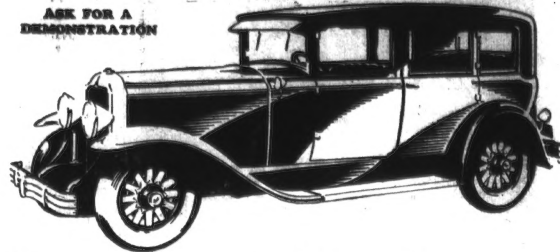

Big game hunting opens as before, September 1, one (male) mountain sheep, and one mountain goat, being the bag limit for the season, which ends October 31.

Deer, moose and caribou (one male deer or moose, and one caribou, bag limit), may be hunted from November 1 to December 14.

THE TOTTERING IDOL

When William Hale Thompson, Mayor of Chicago, clambered upon the pedestal of public affairs, he imbedded his feet firmly in the clay of which the pedestal was made. At that altitude he was in a position to emit anti-British frothings which gained the applause of thousands of admirers and the derision of most of the rest of the world.

But warm words and catch phrases which seize upon the popular fancy for the moment make an insecure support and Big Bill's worshippers have arisen from their attitude of devotion, apparently determined to follow other gods. And they have smitten the brittle clay on which their idol was mounted.

The search for new gods leads William Hale Thompson's followers thither and yon. The "America First" cry which led to so much anti-British demonstration in Chicago is almost silenced and those who were shouting it the loudest yesterday are today asking what blessings are to be had at the altars of other gods. The cry has turned to "Every man for himself."

Today William Hale Thompson is a pathetic figure—William Hale Thompson who had surrounded himself with sympathizers and admirers, lies ill and alone at Green Bay, Wisconsin.

If he survives he will at least have the satisfaction of knowing—if it is any sort of satisfaction to him—that he was once Mayor of Chicago. To that extent, perhaps, the fact that he was able to appeal to a sufficiently large majority of an emotional electorate has served its usefulness, but it is a useful lesson for those who seek permanency in public life that emotionalism, since it subsides quickly, is not the best means to that end.

THE ENDLESS CHAIN

A man goes to some frozen shore its mighty icebergs to explore; that he will come back never more some sports are betting; the days go by, and then the weeks, and nothing from the silence leaks, although the world some message seeks, disturbed and fretting. And then Explorer Number Two remarks, "This thing will never do; I'll have to follow where he flew and save his bacon; he must not perish in the snow where ghosts of dead explorers go; I'll sail up there and let him know he's not forsaken." Then this brave man proceeds to soar away to some uncharted shore, and in two weeks or maybe four we're greatly fearing; we haven't heard a single thing; the northern winds no message bring; perhaps his airship lost a wing, or broke its gearing. Now speaks Explorer Number Three: "It's truly fierce that such things be; I'll journey to that icy sea and find the missing; if I stayed here, a pampered soul, while heroes die around the Pole, my name would seem to be a hole, a thing for hissing. He sails away, we see him fly until we lose him in the sky; 'May heaven prosper him,' we cry, 'and bless his sojourn; but from the shadows bleak and gray no message comes day after day, and much we fear he's cast away where gales are roaring. Then speaks Explorer Number Four: "This business makes me sick and sore; I'll journey to the polar shore and see what's doing; we hear his motor's loud exhaust; he goes, and he is straightway lost and others start at bitter cost, his trail pursuing. It is a stern, heroic tale of men whose strong hearts do not quail, but what does all the work avail, in which they perish? Does not the world already know enough about that waste of snow, of freezing seas and bergs and floes so polar bearish?"

Imp. Sayings

A Column of Fun and Facts for Lacombe Folk and our Farmer Friends

We suppose nearly everybody has had the idea at some time or other that he would like to write something.

Personally, our ambition has been to conduct a "column" in some big city daily and have it syndicated all over the country.

So far the Machine business has kept us too busy to attempt anything of the kind.

But we have arranged to be here every week with our "Imp. Sayings," in which we will talk about:

YOU PEOPLE OUR COMMUNITY ITS IMPROVEMENTS

and maybe a little bit about the Machine business.

Don't miss the Chautauqua this week. Back the boosters in your town and district.

The best features of two famous binders and the result of experience gained in ninety-six harvests are found in the New McCormick Deering Binder. Drop in and look them over.

Style Hint

"The stout ladies have changed a famous quotation. They say: 'There's a destiny that ends our shapes.'"

McCormick Deering Twine winds to the last foot. Does not tangle. Smooth, even and uniform. Length, strength and weight guaranteed.
